UNIFIED COMMAND

USA Triathlon · Incident Command System

At all races, regardless of size, have multiple agencies work alongside race management to ensure event safety. No single group has all the resources needed to manage an incident — all entities must work together to identify problems, develop solutions, and allocate resources. This is the Unified Command, where Incident Commanders of each agency work in tandem to make joint decisions.

KEY BENEFITS OF UNIFIED COMMAND

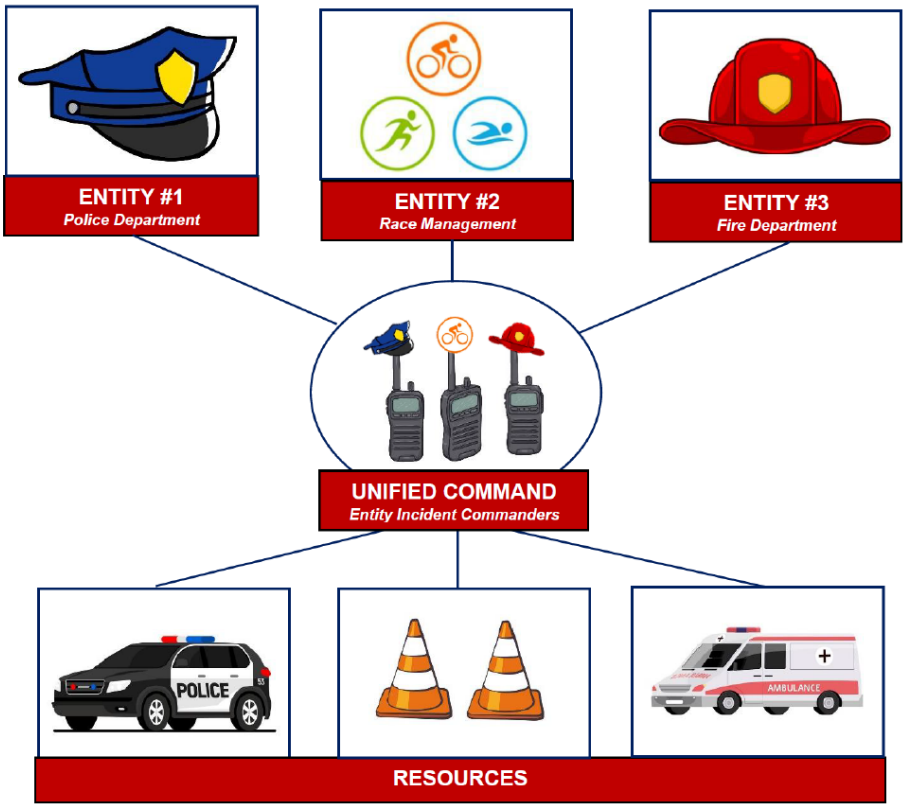
Joint Objectives
All entities manage incidents together with one Incident Action Plan — agency efforts are optimized collectively.

Shared Priorities
All agencies understand joint priorities and restrictions; no agency's contributions are compromised.

Improved Info Flow
Information flow and coordination are enhanced between all entities involved in the incident.

Cohesive Response
Decisions are made in the best interest of the Incident Action Plan, deploying joint resources effectively.

UNIFIED COMMAND STRUCTURE



The information in this Guide is for general information purposes and should be used as a general guide only. The information in this Guide is not intended to be legal advice or consultant advice and you should consult with appropriate experts before making any decisions or taking any actions. USA Triathlon does not assume any responsibility for the accuracy of the information contained in this Guide nor its suitability for any purpose. USA Triathlon makes no representation or warranty, express or implied, regarding the information in this Guide. The information is subject to change without notice. Your use of the information in this Guide is solely at your own risk. The Guide may also contain links to third-party content, which USA Triathlon does not warrant, endorse, or assume liability for the third-party content.